Greg Swarts joins PiTech Solutions

Industry leader named Manager of Business Development for PiTech Solutions

Cary, NC (March 24, 2008) – PiTech Solutions, LLC announced today that Greg Swarts has joined the company as the Manager of Business Development. Greg will be responsible for all aspects of PiTech Solutions' Business Development which includes both commercial and government business sectors.

Greg brings to the company a business development and government sales channel that provides a wide range of business process improvement, project management and system development services to help customers be more competitive and responsive in today's fast-paced business environment. Greg has focused on building solutions that link business strategy to information strategy in the private, public and non-profit sectors and has worked in several business environments, including startup organizations, Fortune 50 companies, state and federal government agencies, the United Nations, as well as international organizations. His expertise includes program and project management, enterprise-level business development, process engineering, enterprise architecture implementation, and social/business networking systems.

Greg worked in senior management positions as State Data Administrator (CIO) for the Washington State Courts; CEO of Community Trove; Vice President for Marketing and Sales at Advantage Factory, CyberFone, and Microlanguage; Director of Response.Net (an international IT humanitarian organization); and Senior Program Manager for Business Transformation at ARCO and at SAIC.

"We are pleased and excited to have Greg join PiTech Solutions as a Manager of Business Development. Greg brings a high level knowledge of Business Intelligence and Social/Business Networking practices as well as developing international country humanitarian and economic development systems. He is a proven visionary and manager and I look forward to his leadership as PiTech Solutions manages the rapid acceptance of our industry-specific solutions, strategic outsourcing and integration services and the accelerated growth of our business" said Senthil Kumar, PiTech Solutions Vice President. "His thought leadership and strategic development experience in both government and commercial sectors will be invaluable to our clients in the United States and with the international companies and organizations that we serve."

"I am excited to join PiTech Solutions. I see the work I will be doing as a continuation of some of the initiatives I have been working on for the last fifteen years," said Greg Swarts. "PiTech Solutions is applying best practices to link improved business performance to information technology. The company also has a clear understanding of the key objective to put the business domain in the driver's seat rather than the technology domain in order to improve competitive advantage. I will draw upon my experiences to make a contribution to those efforts. I look forward to partnering with Senthil Kumar and the rest of PITech Solutions' senior management team in scaling up this rapidly growing company."
